

THE GAZETTE.

WEDNESDAY EVENING, SEPT. 8

A London journal indulges in the following speculations apropos of the diving rod for the discovery of hidden springs, and which has many faithful philosophic followers, including members of the French Academy, as witness their recent discussions. In Dr. Eldridge Spratt's book on "Gout at the Heart," he mentions that a gentleman in Somersetshire, with whom he was intimately acquainted, after having paid away large sums of money in digging wells to no purpose, was surprised to learn that for the sum of ten pounds a man would guarantee to find water and dig for him a serviceable well. This man traced the ground over, and with the assistance of his diving rod found water, and dug the well for the money stated. Dr. Spratt adds: "I have no hesitation in saying that the damp, cold spring under his feet had a powerful effect upon the nervous system of this man, and caused his hand to tremble—a common case enough." He says he knows of several persons so sensitive to damp and water, that it would set their nerves in motion to come near either; and one lady in particular, who would tell where water was to be found without the use of the hazel stick, by nervous sensation alone. After all, this theory involves but the slightest extension of the well-known cases of patients who are afflicted with most unpleasant sensations on the remote approach of wet weather. And in the matter of this sensitive why should not some among us at least share the ability of the birds, beasts, and fishes? At the same time it is all the better for us that the majority of us should avoid investigating our own sensations.

THE MINERAL BUREAU.

The Bureau just established at Alexandria by the railroad companies to aid in developing the iron and other mineral resources of Virginia and promoting home metallurgical industries, will be open for the receipt and public display of samples on and after the first of September next.

For the guidance of those who wish to avail themselves of the advantages which this institution offers, the following items of information are given:

First: It will not undertake to negotiate the purchase or sale of any lands or minerals. In its operation it will be confined mainly to displaying the samples sent to it, and publishing all important information in relation thereto communicated by the senders, acting in the matter as a gratuitous exhibitor and advertiser to the best of its ability, for public benefit.

Second: Each sample intended for display should be as near as possible a truthful average of the mass of minerals from which it was taken, and in quantity sufficient to fill a box measuring on the outside just one cubic foot. The box should be a slightly one, smooth on the outside, and fit to be placed on exhibition. Its lid should be screwed on, not nailed, to avoid breaking or defacing in transit.

Third: Each box should be distinctly marked on its lid thus:

(ONE FOR EXHIBITION.)
Virginia Mineral Bureau,
Alexandria, Va.

And if delivered to the railroad agent at any of the established way stations, or to the baggage master on board of any passenger train on the Washington, Virginia, Midland and Great Northern Railway, or any road connecting therewith, will be transported directly to its destination free of charge, but without any liability for damage, loss or delay. All the roads in the State, it is believed, will immediately unite in this arrangement. When any box is so sent the Bureau should be notified through the mail by the sender.

Fourth: Within each box, and securely enveloped to prevent soiling, there should be a statement, written in a distinct, bold hand, setting forth (first) the name and post-office address of the sender, (second) the exact location of the land from which the mineral was taken, and the probable quantity of mineral upon it, or the thickness, length and breadth of the deposits, so far as ascertained, and (third) whether or not the mineral is offered for sale, and if so offered, such other information as a person desiring to purchase would be apt to ask for.

Fifth: Each box, as it is received, will be opened, labeled and placed for display in its appropriate position in the exhibition chamber, and the written statement found within it will be described in a general reading book, which will always be open to the public for reference. An appropriate notice of each sample will be at once handed for publication to each of the newspapers in Alexandria.

Sixth: The exhibition chamber will be kept open to the public daily, Sundays and public holidays excepted, from 8 a. m. to 5 p. m. It will be the duty of the attendant to be courteous to visitors, and afford them every opportunity to inspect the samples on display and obtain whatever information in relation thereto of which the Bureau has possession. It will also be his duty to carefully protect the samples from being broken, mutilated or removed; but this rule will not apply to prevent limited average portions from being taken, according to special directions, for analysis.

The Montpelier Female Humane Association, chartered by the Legislature of Virginia and the Circuit Court of Orange county, proposes, by a series of Grand Gift Concerts, to establish and endow a "Home for the Old, Infirm and Destitute Ladies of Virginia," at Montpelier, the former residence of President James Madison. The Association is under the control of eight trustees, six of whom are elected biennially by the stockholders and two appointed by the Governor of Virginia.

Governor's Office, Richmond, July 3, '74. It affords me pleasure to say that I am well acquainted with a large majority of the officers of the Montpelier Female Humane Association who reside in the vicinity of my home, and attest their intelligence and their worth and high reputation as gentlemen, as well as the public confidence, influence and substantial means liberally represented among them.

Alexandria, Va., July 8th, 1874. My personal acquaintance with a majority of the gentlemen controlling the Montpelier Female Humane Association and the reputation of all of them enables me to commend them as fully entitled to the confidence of the public. No act or representation inconsistent with honor and integrity need be apprehended in the conduct or representations of these gentlemen.
K. W. HUGHES, U. S. Judge East. Dist. of Va.
